OVERVIEW

I'm a multi platform content producer originating from London with 18 years experience in production. I specialize in providing production solutions for agencies and brands with creative quality and craft at the center of everything I do. As Director of production for Saatch & Saatchi NY, I managed a team of over 30 people including producers (film, print and digital), business managers, talent and traffic. I was responsible for all content across all clients within the NYC office. I've helped build and create revenue generating internal Production and post production studios as well as production platforms tailored to suit specific clients needs and workflow. I was also the lead curator for the world famous Saatchi & Saatchi new directors showcase.
